Unit 1: Action Words: Run, Jump, Read and Write

Learning Objectives

• Students will identify action words in simple sentences.

• Students will act out common action words such as run, jump, read and write.

• Students will use action words to describe what they and their friends are doing.

Key Concepts

• An action word tells us what a person or animal is doing.

• Run, jump, eat, sleep, read and write are all action words.

• Every sentence about doing something has an action word in it.

• We can act out action words with our body to understand them better.

• Action words help us tell a story about what is happening.

Teaching Methodology (Step by Step)

1. The teacher runs across the front of the class and asks, 'What am I doing?' and writes 'run' on the board.

2. The teacher shows pictures of children jumping, eating, sleeping and reading and asks students to name each action.

3. The teacher explains that words which tell us what someone is doing are called action words.

4. The teacher writes a short sentence on the board, such as 'Ali is writing', and asks the class to find the action word.

5. The teacher reads five simple sentences aloud and students clap when they hear an action word.

6. The teacher asks each student to say one action word and act it out for the class.

Classroom Activities

• Act it out: the teacher calls an action word and students act it out — run, jump, clap, read, write.

• Picture match: students match action-word cards to pictures of children doing the action.

• Simon Says: students follow only the commands that begin with 'Simon says' using action words.

Assessment Questions

1. Name three action words you can do in the classroom.

2. Point to the action word in this sentence: 'Sara is reading a book.'

3. Act out one action word and let the class guess it.

Homework

• Draw three pictures of yourself doing three different actions and write the action word under each picture.

• Ask a family member to act out two action words and guess them.
