Unit 1: Reading Comprehension: Finding the Main Idea

Learning Objectives

• Students will identify the main idea of a short passage in their own words.

• Students will distinguish the main idea from supporting details.

• Students will use the title and first and last sentences as clues to the main idea.

Key Concepts

• The main idea is the central point the writer wants the reader to understand.

• Supporting details are facts, examples and explanations that back up the main idea.

• A title often hints at the topic, but the main idea is a full statement about that topic.

• The first sentence of a paragraph often states the main idea, and the last sentence often repeats it in different words.

Teaching Methodology (Step by Step)

1. Read the passage title aloud and ask students what topic they expect.
2. Read the passage together slowly, pausing after each paragraph.
3. Ask: what is this paragraph mostly about? Collect one-word topic answers first.
4. Turn the topic into a full sentence: the main idea in the writer's own message.
5. Underline two supporting details that prove the main idea.
6. Repeat with a second paragraph, this time letting students work in pairs before sharing.

Classroom Activities

• Main-idea hunt: pairs read a new paragraph and write its main idea in one sentence.

• Detail sort: students sort five given sentences into main idea and supporting details.

• Title match: students match three short paragraphs to the best title for each.

Assessment Questions

1. Read a new paragraph and write its main idea in one sentence.
2. Name one supporting detail from the paragraph that proves your main idea.
3. Explain in one line how a main idea differs from a topic.

Homework

• Read one paragraph from your English textbook and write its main idea and two supporting details.

• Write a title of your own for that paragraph.
